

Master's Degree in Women's and Gender Studies

Mobility

In the selection process you are asked to indicate your preference for 2 universities where you want to study: your Home University and your Mobility University. For every new edition of GEMMA each individual mobility path is decided upon during the Consortium student selection meeting.

The students' choices and their areas of study are carefully reviewed at this stage. Student preferences are always taken into account and they will be respected as long as a balanced distribution of students among all consortium member institutions is kept.

However, due to the high number of applications to our programme, there is a possibility that you will be offered a different mobility route than the one you originally requested.

Students can start at any of the consortium institutions and all mobility paths are available providing they involve institutions from two different countries (thus excluding Granada-Oviedo/Oviedo-Granada), which makes a total of 40 different mobility paths.
